

Transcript for Changes to Compass Podcast 2019

1. In Shropshire if you have a concern about the welfare of a child, you can phone The First Point of Contact (FPOC). They are a customer call centre and are highly skilled and trained to deal with many council 'enquires'.
They will help direct your call to the most appropriate service.
Before you call FPOC it is important that you refer to the SSCB Threshold Document and speak to your Designated Safeguarding Lead
2. In the Threshold Document, Early Help (in yellow) is where single agencies don't need to contact anyone; they have gained consent and are working with and supporting the whole family. These single agencies, for example, might be a school, a nursery or a youth club. This vital and important work helps to keep children safe.
3. Targeted Early Help (in orange) is where support for a family has been considered and it has been agreed with the family that they would benefit from a more targeted level of expertise to support them, which might include input from several agencies, coordinated by a lead professional from a Targeted Early Help team.
4. The main route for referral into Targeted Early Help is via the Early Help referral pathway which can be found on the Early Help website, currently this is predominantly via ECINs which in time will move to Liquid Logic. The families consent is required to make a referral. You can also call FPOC for further guidance or to arrange a consultation with a member of the Early Help team. FPOC will gather details and forward this to the Early Help Family Hub inbox, where referrals/contacts will be triaged and the appropriate support service identified. An Early Help Family Hub is where children, young people and their families can access help and support, not just from the local authority but from a range of providers offering holistic, early intervention services to a whole community.
Early help services across the county will provide whole family support, dealing with all the issues a family faces, with their full involvement and consent. These services will be delivered through six Early Help Family Hubs across the county, which will be designated Children's Centres.
5. Children who have complex and significant needs are shown in pink.
Children's Social Care work with children who have these needs.
For child protection referrals where it is suspected that a child may be suffering or be at risk of suffering significant harm, Children's Social Care do not always need consent of the parent or carer.
6. As a professional you must always consider consent before phoning FPOC, it is considered good practice to inform an adult with parental responsibility that you are making a referral unless to do so may:
either
  - Place the child at increased risk of significant harm
  - Place any other person at risk of injury
  - Obstruct or interfere with any potential police investigationor
  - Lead to unjustified delay in making enquiries about allegations of significant harmIn all other situations consent is required and your contact into Children's Social Care cannot progress until this consent is obtained.
7. You can call FPOC when you have concerns about a child that you think requires Children's Social Care intervention
FPOC will take basic details and concerns about the family and put your call through to Compass. Compass will make a decision about the child's needs and whether or not your contact is a referral to Children's Social Care.
In all situations where Children's Social Care do not consider a child to be at risk of significant harm, the child's parent or carer must consent to Children's Social Care being involved.
Without consent Children's Social Care will not be able to get involved.
8. From 2nd January 2019 Children's Social Care will send parents a letter telling them that as a professional you have contacted them and whether your contact has been accepted as a referral, you as a professional will be sent a copy of this letter.
9. To summarise, families should always know what information is being shared unless it increases risk for the children. Therefore you must always consider seeking consent and having these difficult conversations with parents and carers. If consent is not given but you still have a concern, it is okay to phone Compass via FPOC to check, but be prepared for Children's Social Care to ask you to go back to family to gain consent.

10. There are several ways that concerns can be shared with Compass
11. By going in person to Compass, Children's Social Care Offices at Mount McKinley
12. Through secure email using the MARF (Multiagency Referral Form). The completed MARF is very helpful in evidencing professional concerns and how the situation meets the threshold for a referral and Children's Social Care intervention.
13. As already highlighted, through FPOC. However even if you contact FPOC you will still need to complete a MARF within 24 hours of first phoning FPOC.
14. Through information that's been shared via Domestic Violence triage meetings which happen every weekday at Mount McKinley, and via MARAC (Multiagency Risk Assessment Conference), MAPPA (Multi Agency Public Protection Arrangements) and CSE (Child Sexual Exploitation) Panel Meetings.
15. So, to report concerns about a child that require Children's Social Care Interventions, Phone FPOC, you will then either be connected to Compass or the child's Allocated Team
If the child's social worker is not available you can leave a message or speak to a duty worker who will respond to any urgent matter
16. If you know the family has a social worker call direct to either the Case Management Team, Disabled Children's Team, Initial Assessment Team or Looked After Children's Team.
If the child's social worker is not available, again you can leave a message or speak to a duty worker who will respond to any urgent matter
17. Here's the complete overview of how to report concerns about a child
18. When a social worker is knocking at the door, if the parent is expecting the social worker and has given consent in recognition of their difficulties, the social worker will be welcomed and asked to come in and an open conversation will take place about the concerns for their child
19. When consent is not gained there's delay for the child and family at the start. If the 'consent' conversation hasn't taken place there's often a damaged relationship with the referrer, parents are understandably defensive and uncooperative and they understandably feel that the referrer has not been open and honest. The result is often that the parents do not fully engage with the assessment process and refuse any on-going support. So please seek consent prior to contacting Compass via FPOC.
20. The MARF must be completed in every case by a professional who is seeking access to children's social care. In the event of a child being at risk of significant harm a phone call to FPOC in the first instance will be sufficient and consent is not expected in these situations.
The MARF needs to be sent securely within 24 hours of making the initial phone call to FPOC. So you need to apply a password when sending the email. Please make sure that the details you put in the MARF reflect the concerns that you've given verbally over the phone.
21. Shropshire Safeguarding Children Board and all partner agencies are committed to open and transparent joint working to safeguard and promote the welfare of children. Raising questions, challenging, and escalating concerns where appropriate, quickly and clearly, is seen as a positive approach to practice and continuing improvement in how we protect and meet the needs of children in Shropshire.
If you disagree with the outcome of your contact into Compass you need to follow this Escalation policy
22. There is another route for support if you have an immediate or significant concern about a child or young person's mental health. Please contact the Children and Families Mental Health Service, Bee U
23. We will finish this presentation with the Compass pathway when you have concerns about a child/or a request for Children's Social Care Intervention
24. And these pathways to Children's Social Care and Early Help Family Hubs.
Thank you for playing this short video. Please share these messages widely to professionals in Shropshire.
